home with us + spent the P.M. at the Town Hall - but did not get into office. Now I must bid you good night + join Mrs.
B. in her labors for the cause of Homeopathy. - Love from our household to yours
Carrie -

Belmont Mar. 6. 1871

Let me add a few words of loving greeting to you, dear Anne, and Addie, with your household, of which you give us such pleasant pictures. Altho' I may have nothing new to communicate apart from Sarah's bulletin, it is a pleasure to record that the roads and the weather were sufficiently favorable today to induce father to take a walk and make us a call, and we hope all things will favor a frequent repetition of this sanitary measure. Mother seems to have regained her usual health & we shall expect soon to find her on the road if this spring-like weather continues. We rejoice with you that the war has ended & that you may have a chance to come thro' Paris next summer. There is a large fair projected in Boston for the aid of the suffering French & I suppose I must lend a helping hand, though I dislike such methods of raising money - but fairs are prevalent & I have also been drawn in to contribute to a Children's fair to be held at the house of Dr. Wendthoff in aid of the Homeopathic Hospital which has been recently established & in the success of which I feel much interest. It is to be a free hospital similar to Dr. Zerk's. We have had the pleasure of Maggie's company for a few days, but she has now gone again to Boston to visit another of her Mr. Vernon friends.

Mrs. Howard & Mrs. Brigham send, with their love, many thanks for your kind remembrance - Louise is still enjoying the generous hospitalities of the West, being at present among friends in Alton -

Susan's health seems to be improving - she spent the afternoon with us. As the affairs of the Town were to be settled today, Edward dined at
